Matt Maes - Founder and Creative Educator
Surreal Mythologist Artist
Quantum Keyhole Studio

Mythic art created through the realization that all of the stories live inside and around us, if we simply observe and remember that it is our birthright to live our lives in ways that are profound and mythical

Bio

The twin threads of storytelling and creativity have been interwoven throughout Matt's life. His creative adventures have crossed numerous mediums and subjects, arriving full circle to his true first love of mythical visual art presented with his own surreal flare. His natural existential curiosity finds its lens through his craft, informed by his own personal journeys.

Matt's life journey has informed the meanings through his mythic art and love of the redeeming power of creativity. He leaned on his love of art through chronic depression and dedication to personal evolution. Having attained his Bachelor of Arts in Media Arts and Animation in 2015, he is committed to opening up self-awareness and creativity through his mythic art, creative education and public speaking.

Through his commitment to developing a thriving creative venture, Matt has created paintings featuring several mythic deities and heroes from across the world. By applying his designs to a number of forms such as t-shirts, hoodies, wall hangings, stickers, books, greeting cards, commissions and more, the art is able to fit into people's lives in numerous ways. Matt now lives with his wife and son in beautiful Denver, Colorado.
